

HOLLOWAY FUNERAL HOME

SALISBURY, MARYLAND

Holloway Funeral Home, a fifth-generation funeral home, has maintained a professional and caring commitment to the families it serves throughout the community. Over the generations the business and its resources have ground allowing the family to renew some of the funeral home's physical properties. The Gillis Gilkerson team renovated both chapels in the funeral home by installing new walls, ceilings, a new display area, concealed doors, and crown molding to the chapels and adjoining family rooms. The Gillis Gilkerson team also build an additional conference room and created an alcove space with an open window for reception. The changes made to the funeral home created better usable space, and were completed without disruption to daily business.

"We are pleased and honored to have a repeat client have confidence in Gillis Gilkerson, and to trust our expertise," said Dwight Miller, Executive Consultant for Gillis Gilkerson. "We enjoyed collaborating with the Holloway team and listening to their goals in order to modernize their facility to better suit their business and their clients."
