

DOUGH ROLLER

OCEAN CITY, MARYLAND

After the original Dough Roller burned down in a fire in March 2008, Gillis Gilkerson was brought in to re-build the +/- 10,000 square foot restaurant located at South Division Street & the Boardwalk in Ocean City, Maryland.

Located just a few steps from the Inlet Parking Lot, and right next door to Marty's Playland and Trimper's Rides, the iconic restaurant filled with Americana memorabilia has long been a part of the quintessential summer experience for so many of Ocean City's visitors.

Gillis Gilkerson was honored to take on the task of restoring the Ocean City landmark, and less than one year after the fire, the Gillis Gilkerson team had the new restaurant open for business. The new restaurant features plenty of seating, an open kitchen, and exterior take-out windows wrapped all the way around the building ensuring fast lines and convenient access for customers.
